DESCRIPTION OF TEST MATERIALS AND THEIR USES

Tests A-J,* GS, HS, and the New Testament Diagnostic are designed for the purpose of assessing general knowledge of biblical content. They are for the exclusive use of institutions of higher learning, such as Bible colleges, liberal arts colleges, and seminaries. These college level tests have the following prescriptive and descriptive uses:

- Counseling of incoming freshmen;
- Sectioning classes;
- Measuring progress from freshman to senior years;
- Evaluating curricular changes and teaching methods; and
- Establishing a basis for research purposes and assessment needs.

* Users of test E are advised that the test was erroneously sold to a well-known mission agency for use as part of a screening process for missionary candidacy. While the test's validity may be at risk, we have no evidence that test confidentiality has been compromised by the error.

The SP test has been developed for use by organizations, such as churches, mission boards, and Christian high schools for:

- Determining the general Bible knowledge of missionary candidates;
- Analyzing the Bible knowledge of a church congregation; or
- Assessing the Bible knowledge of high school seniors in order to better prepare them for college or to give them a more appropriate biblical foundation.

Except for mini-tests GS and HS, all tests contain 150 questions that cover areas of history, geography, facts about people, doctrine, identification of Bible quotes, and general book content. Mini-tests GS and HS each contain 50 questions. With the exception of the New Testament Diagnostic test, all tests cover both the Old and New Testaments.

The Bible Content Test Program is unique in the field of Christian higher education and has proven to be an excellent tool for evaluating teaching effectiveness, learning, and curriculum design. For sample copies and further information, please contact AABC.

DESCRIPTION OF THE MATERIALS

Test booklets and mini-tests are reusable test instruments. Revised forms A and B have OT and NT questions in separate sections thus enabling differentiation between and comparison of OT and NT scores. Limited quantities of forms SP, D, and E, are available in Spanish. If Spanish versions are being ordered, ample time should be allowed for preparing large orders. Answer sheets are to be used by the students to mark their answers to questions in the test booklets or mini-tests. Scoring keys are hole-punched grids to be placed over answer sheets so that the grader can quickly identify incorrect or blank answers. Manuals and instructions contain norms and other information for test administration and interpretation of test scores.
